October 17, 2021 ~ Twenty-ninth Sunday in Ordinary Time

“Not what we say, but what we do!”

In today’s gospel passage, as Jesus nears Jerusalem, there is a sense that the disciples are still hoping for a tangible victory that will usher in Jesus’s earthly kingship. Jesus predicts his passion, death, and resurrection three different times in Mark’s gospel. Today contains one such prediction that comes right after James and John’s request. Despite having heard Jesus’s prediction of the shameful death that awaits him, James and John still dare to ask to have privileged seats when Jesus enters his glory. Again, Jesus teaches his disciples that true greatness lies not in power, prestige, and authority but in the humble service one can offer to another. When word of James and John’s request causes consternation among the others, Jesus warns his disciples that they have embarked on a new path. They are not like the Gentiles, instead Jesus invites them to take their ambition for greatness and turn that energy into service. The failure of the disciples to understand Jesus, his mission, and his relationship to his Father, was an aspect of suffering for Jesus. Power and triumphalism, the desire for first places in the kingdom, have nothing to do with discipleship. The other ten disciples argue and bicker among themselves, angry over James and John’s approach to Jesus. We might suspect that this reaction is not so much because of the inappropriateness of the brothers’ request, but more because these two had beaten the others to it! Knowing that earthly ambition and competitiveness were what the disciples had in their sight, Jesus calls them together to try to teach them, yet again, what is to be the foundation of their identity: the service of others that reflects the self-sacrificing service of Jesus. This lesson is difficult to learn. The disciples, like us, need constant reminders to let go of the desire for personal gain and prestige. Kingdom greatness is the gift for those who make no claim to power and status but rather live their life in service to others.

“Well, it’s like this, Sister, we prayed to St. Anthony and he helped us find them.”

Enjoy the week! ~ Fr. Balash

*"For the Son of Man did not come to be served, but to serve and to give his life as a ransom for many."
(Mark 10:45)*

If you held a mirror up to your life, would it reflect God's love and mercy? If you are struggling with this, try changing your attitude from "I want more" to "thank you God for everything you have given me, I have enough to share". This change in perspective will bring you joy through service to others. Pray daily to become less self-centered and to become more God-centered.
